Alak Bhattacharya □□□□ A law graduate from the University of Calcutta, Alak Bhattacharya has established a formidable civil practice within the Howrah jurisdiction. He is widely recognized for his exceptional courtroom mannerisms, precise civil drafting, and a well-modulated voice that commands attention during arguments. His versatile legal expertise allows him to seamlessly handle complex civil suits, appeals, revisions, and trials. Beyond his rigorous legal practice, Bhattacharya is a passionate writer who has authored and published several short Bengali novels. This creative side complements his analytical mind, making him a distinct voice in both legal and literary circles. His deep-rooted connection with the Howrah civil society is highly noteworthy, reflecting his active engagement with the local community outside the courtroom. Balancing sharp legal acumen with a literary pursuit, he remains a respected and influential figure in the region's professional ecosystem.
